Family Relationship Centre

Our services

The Family Relationship Centre can assist you no matter what stage you are in your relationship.

We can assist you to find relevant services if you are:

- Beginning a new relationship
- Wanting to improve your current relationship
- If your relationship is struggling
- If you need help with parenting
- If you are separating or have separated.

We can help:

- Those just starting a relationship
- Those with young or old families
- Grandparents and other relatives.

We can help in many ways

At our Resource Centre you will find:

- A full supply of brochures on community services
- Booklets supplied by government agencies and other services

Other services

We provide a comprehensive individual assessment of your needs.

We can provide you with information on local services that can help you to:

- Begin a new relationship
- Improve your current relationship
- Cope with the process of separation
- Improve your parenting and step parenting skills.

We can also make referrals on your behalf to those services.

We run Child Focused Information Sessions to help parents understand how children experience separation.

We also provide Family Dispute Resolution to help parents reach an agreement about their children.

Early Intervention Services

We also have a range of early intervention services located at the Family Relationship Centres which include:

- Relationships Counselling
- Relationship Education
- Assisting men and women to build healthy relationships
