Student Practitioners

Relationships Australia.
SOUTH AUSTRALIA

Relationships Australia (SA) prides itself in supporting students studying counselling, mediation and community work to gain their qualifications.

Relationships Australia (SA) provides counselling, mediation and education services, and also provides training, education and placement support for people seeking to gain qualifications in counselling, mediation and community work.

We support the ongoing development of our practitioners and the education and training of students in our learning programs and on placement. At times when you attend an appointment or participate in an education program the practitioner may have a student placed with them.

Students on placement are bound by the same standards of confidentiality and accountability for their practice, as our employed staff and are supervised by senior practitioners during their placement at Relationships Australia (SA) at all times.

You may have already had experience of students participating in counselling, mediation or education sessions with your practitioner or had the opportunity to attend our Student Clinic which is a free counselling service conducted by counselling students under supervision.

We thank you for contributing to the development and improvement of our counselling, mediation and education services and you can be assured that any aspect of our services provided by a student on placement is:

- scrutinised to ensure you gain maximum benefit
- supported to achieve best possible outcomes
- within the skill and knowledge level of the student
- aimed at improving the services we provide.

If you do not wish to have a student present in your session please inform reception when making a booking or when attending your session and if you have any concerns in regard to students' placement please contact either:
