Relationships Australia.
SOUTH AUSTRALIA

Forced Adoption Support Services (FASS) provide specialist services and support for you and your family.

Forced Adoption Support Services

On 21 March 2013, the Prime Minister apologised on behalf of the Australian Government to people affected by forced adoption or removal policies and practices. The national apology was delivered in the Great Hall of Parliament House, Canberra.

In response to this apology, the Australian Government Department of Social Services has funded a national Forced Adoption Support Service, and in South Australia this is delivered by Relationships Australia South Australia.

Further information on the National Apology can be found at Department of Social Services website www.dss.gov.au

Forced Adoption Support Services

The Forced Adoption Support Services (FASS) provide support to mothers and fathers who have lost a child/children to adoption, adult adoptees and extended family members where the birth and adoption took place in Australia.

There is no cost for this service

FASS provides:

- A national telephone support service on 1800 21 03 13 (which represents the date of the Apology to those affected by forced adoptions)
- Case coordination,
- Advice and support on adoption related issues
- Assistance with records tracing
- Support for raising awareness of the effects of forced adoption on all those affected
- Support with family reunions, including support before, during and after reunion.
- Warm referrals to other professional and support organisations based on client needs

FASS will also administer small grants through subcontracting arrangements to peer support and advocacy groups.

To find out more about the Forced Adoption Support Service in your state or territory please contact the support line on 1800 21 03 13.
